LOCAL OPTION'S BIG CONVENTION

Just a Clever Fake Planned by Pleas. Holt, Whisky's Campaign Manager.

Great Gathering of Prominent Men Failed to Gather.

Failed to Gather.

Tally one for Pleas. Holt—or, perhaps I it's several.

The big local option convention in Jacksonville on Thursday of last week was a "fake" gathering.

Instead of a monster convention of the prominent men from all parts of the state, "men of exalted character and splendid intellectual endowment,"—hundred's of them—as represented by the Times-Union and the Metropolis, there wasn't more than 35 all told, who were delegates taking part. By actual count there were exactly 103 men presented of the prominent ment.

Dr. Turcell will move to patient supply of the Presbyterian church, the question of his call to the pastorate being deferred until the doctor and the people of the church become acquainted, and such arrangement becomes mutually agreeable.

From the Christian Observer of recent date, under the department head of church work, the News clips the following reference to Dr. Purcell in Monticulto, Ark.:

"The pastor, Rev. J. W. Purcell, D. D., who supplied the pulpit of his former charge at Keyser, W. Va., during the vacation of the pastor, Rev. M, B. Lambdin, returned to his work the first Sabbath in September. At the morning

But the Times Union printed a list of the delegates. So did the Metropolis Not one-third of those whose names were printed in the list of delegates were present. The list, together with the pictures of

The list, together with the pictures of the delegates and the short biographical sketches of their careers, was all pre-pared—arranged for—in advance by Pleasant A. Holt, manager of the local option campaign which was organized and is being paid for by the organized whisky interests of the state.

That is the truth. The Times-Union made some mistakes in its list of delegates. Here is one that was corrected in that paper last Tuesday:

"Editor Times-Union: I notice in your Thursday paper you have my name as one of the delegates in favor of local option. I will ask you to correct this error, as my name was just taken from the register book at the Aragon hotel, and will ask you to state in your paper that I am a statewide prohibitionist, and expect to do what I can to dry the state of Florida. Respectfully yours, "J. W. KIMBROUGH,"

Webster, Fla. The News has nothing to say regard ing the standing of these men. Several of them are well known in the state, but the bulk of them mentioned as being "prominent" are scarcely known outside their own precincts.

Some of them honestly believe in local carlier as the state of the state of cal option as the best manner of dealing with the liquor evil. Some of them don't even believe that

Some don't care a rap whether it is or not-they are willing to give it their support provided they are paid liberally for doing it.

Some three or four of those named as being present are said to have been in favor of "drying" their home county.

But the great body of them are for the licensed saloon at home and everywhere or sell, themselves to Pleas. Holt and his organization of whisky dealers to as-sist in misleading the people of Florida. If these papers deny that they participated knowingly in this "fake," then their managers should be with their kind in an asylum for the simple minded. They are either knaves or f—— too "easy" for metropolitan journalists.

At the Orpheum.

The pictures at the Orpheum 5 and 10 ont theater have been e-pecially good all this week and have certainly been appreciated by patrons, as shown by the large attendance. Wednesday six films were shown and last night there were seven. This is an unusually large num-ber. The Whitney Sisters, song and dance artists, wern't much, but even the man-agement of a theater gets stung once and occasionally. These girls couldn't quite dance. However, the audience didn't mind, for all felt they were getting three or four times their money's worth in

Last night Bailey and Edwards, "Silly Sam and the Soubrette," began an en-gagement which continues through the balance of the week. They are really clever people and were roundly applauded, showing the audience appreciates the efforts of Manager Kalbfield to put on attractions that please. The theater will be crowded the balance of the week. Beginning Monday, George Murphy the dancing demon and Helen Scott, novelty singer, will be the stage attrac-tion for three nights.

Will Appeal to Circuit Court. A case for assault and battery wherein county commissioner W. C. Alvers of Sisco is complainant and Starling Padgett of near Crescent City is defendant, was on before Justice John E. Marshall last Monday morning. The difficulty grew out of a disagreement over county road work, and Mr. Padgett, insensed at the commissioner, attempted to pull him off his horse, as the evidence showed. Mr. Alvers is a small man, physically, and is about 70 years of age.

After bearing the evidence, Justice Marshull imposed a fine of $3 and costs on Padgett, who gave notice of an appeal to the Circuit Court. A case for assault and battery wherein Notice of Application for Tax Deed.
